Additional information for individuals in the State of California, US

HPE’s privacy practices are aligned with the requirements of the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA). If you reside in California, we are required to provide additional information to you about how we use and disclose your personal data, and you may have additional rights with regard to how we use your personal data. This section describes those rights and explains how to exercise them as a supplement to our Privacy Statement.

Personal data. Consistent with the “How we use personal data” and “How we share your personal data” sections in our Privacy Statement, we collect certain categories and specific pieces of information about individuals that are considered “personal information” under the CCPA. Specifically, we may collect the following types of personal data:

Some of personal information that we collect may be considered sensitive under the CCPA. To the extent we collect personal information, we only use and disclose it for purposes that the CCPA recognizes are not subject to a right to limit. For example, we use sensitive information to conduct anti-money laundering and other regulatory checks and for purposes that do not infer characteristics about you.

Sources. We may collect certain categories of personal data from you and other third parties as described in the “How we use personal data” section in our Privacy Statement. The categories of third parties from whom we may collect personal data include the following:

- Partners, resellers and/or distributors;
- Public authorities;
- Third party applications (such as social networks);
- Advertising networks; and
- Other companies or organizations (such as market research firms and data aggregators).

Retention. We keep personal data for the length of any contractual relationship and, to the extent permitted by applicable laws, after the end of that relationship for as long as necessary to perform purposes set out in the Privacy Statement, to protect HPE from legal claims and administer our business. When we no longer need to use personal data, we will delete it from our systems and records or take steps to anonymize the data unless we need to keep it longer to comply with a legal or regulatory obligation.

Your rights in relation to your personal data. Subject to certain exceptions, as a California resident, you have the right to:

- Know categories and specific pieces of personal information collected; categories of sources from which personal information is collected; business or commercial purpose for collecting, selling, and sharing personal information; and categories of third parties to whom information is disclosed;
- Request that we disclose access to your personal data;
- Request deletion of your personal data;
- Request information about the personal data we have disclosed for a business purposes and/or “sold” (as such term is defined under the CCPA) to third parties within the past 12 months; and
- Opt-out of the “sale” of your personal data, as detailed above and below.

If you are a California resident and wish to exercise any of the rights described in this section, you may use the following methods to submit a request in relation to your personal data:

- Contact the HPE Privacy Office via an email;
- Contact the HPE Privacy Office by completing the form available here;
- Contact the HPE Privacy Office via the toll-free number 1-866-I-OPT-OUT (i.e., 1-866-4-678-688) and by choosing HPE code 115.

You must include your name, street address, city, state, and zip code in your request. You may be asked to provide additional proof of identification so that we can verify your identity and validate the request. Please note that in order to opt-out from Automatic Data Collection Tools you need to use “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link and web page as we do not have the ability to connect your name with your device(s).

To the extent that you elect to designate an authorized agent to make a request on your behalf, the above methods to submit a request apply. Please note that you are limited by law in the number of requests you may submit per year.

“Do Not Sell My Personal Information”. By using Automatic Data Collection Tools on our websites and applications, we may share some of your digital activity information with third parties in order to receive information about performance of our marketing campaigns. You have the right, as a California resident, to opt-out of the “sale” of your personal data or the “sharing” of your personal information for certain targeted advertising activities, i.e., our use of Automatic Data Collection Tools. If you wish to exercise this right, please click on the “Do Not Sell or Share My Personal Information” link available at the hpe.com home page and exercise your opt-out right on the subsequent landing page.

HPE will not discriminate against you for exercising any of your rights permitted by law.
